

I just wanted to express my concern at the current attempt to weaken Indiana's Do Not Call list. My phone has had only a handful of unsolicited calls in the last 3 years, versus as many as eight a day before our do not call list went into affect. People with legitimate reason to contact me do, and I don't consider what the Consumer Bankers Association is doing to be adding any value. Instead, they will once again be an intrusion into my time with my family. Thank you for taking my comments.
